

Janus Henderson Horizon Pan European Smaller Companies Fund

For professional investors only | For promotional purposes

A contrarian smaller cap strategy focused on identifying mispriced companies within Europe

May be suitable for investors seeking a long-term total return from a broad portfolio of under-researched European (including UK) companies at the lower end of the market capitalisation spectrum.

Designed to:

Identify mispriced companies: The fund manager utilises a distinctive, dynamic approach that is driven by bottom-up stock selection, based on company meetings, market knowledge and extensive research.

Discover the undiscovered: The strategy is designed to harness the long-term potential of well-managed, highly competitive firms that have been misjudged or overlooked in the under-researched smaller-cap area.

Offer a true small-cap strategy: The fund invests in a diversified portfolio of smaller European companies (including the UK) that fall within the bottom 25% of their respective market, in terms of market capitalisation.

Benefiting from:

Highly experienced manager: Fund manager Ollie Beckett has extensive knowledge of investing in European smaller companies. This gives him an edge when meeting company management and assessing the strength of a business model. Ollie is supported by 'strength in depth' in Janus Henderson's Pan European Equity team.

Flexibility: The fund manager takes a pragmatic approach to valuation measures, using a range of tools to ensure he pays the right price, rather than adhering to any particular focus on growth or value.

Valuation sensitivity: The fund manager pays particular attention to valuation as a key driver of long-term performance, unlike many other smaller companies funds, where factors such as earnings momentum may be dominant.

With economic growth picking up globally and a broader recovery seemingly underway, European smaller companies look like an attractive place to be right now.”

Ollie Beckett, Fund Manager

Opportunity set

Europe is home to a diverse range of smaller companies, many of which are under-researched. Structurally, smaller companies typically enjoy a range of fundamental advantages over their larger competitors, with an agile, entrepreneurial structure and management teams that usually have a significant personal stake. They are also often focused on expansion, with profits used to fund further growth over the long term, to the benefit of shareholders.

The prospect of merger and acquisition activity is also an attractive feature of smaller companies across Europe and the UK. Larger companies often see smaller firms as affordable 'bolt-on' acquisitions that can bring in new skills and market-leading technology, or provide access to niche markets without the high costs often associated with research or market development.

Important information

Past performance is not a guide to future performance and the fund may not achieve its investment objective. The value of an investment and any income from it can fall as well as rise and you may not get back the amount originally invested. Changes in the rate of exchange between currencies, if appropriate, may cause your investment to go up or down in value. Before investing, please read the Key Investor Information Document and Fund Prospectus. You should satisfy yourself as to the suitability and risks involved and you may wish to consult a financial advisor.
