Terms to understand

Collective Investment Schemes Funds that invest in shares, bonds and other securities.

Derivatives Financial instruments whose value is linked to the price of an underlying asset (eg indices, rates, share prices).

Exchange traded funds Typically, a mutual fund that tracks an index but whose shares trade on an exchange.

Money market instruments A short term debt instrument, issued by a government or company as a way to raise money. Generally considered a cash equivalent.

Shares / Equities Securities that represent fractional ownership in a company.

Transferable security An investment, such as shares in a company and other investments equivalent to shares, bonds and other forms of debt, whose ownership can be freely transferred.

Volatility How sharply the Fund's share price has gone up and down over a period, generally several years.

You can buy, sell or switch shares in the Fund on any business day, as defined within the "Definitions" Section of the Fund's prospectus.

This share class accumulates gross income and capital gains which is retained within the price of the share class.

Risk and reward profile

♦ Potentially lower reward			Potentially higher reward ♦
♦ Lower risk			Higher risk ♦
1	2	3	4	5	6	7

The value of an investment and any income from it can go up or down. When you sell your shares they may be worth less than you paid for them.

The risk/reward rating above is based on medium-term volatility. In the future, the Fund's actual volatility could be higher or lower and its rated risk/reward level could change.

The share class appears at 4 out of 7. Share classes in higher categories have shown greater and/or more frequent variations in share price in the past 5 years than those in lower categories. The lowest category does not mean risk free.

The rating does not reflect the possible effects of unusual market conditions or large unpredictable events. Under normal market conditions the following risks may apply:

Active management risk Active management techniques that have worked well in normal market conditions could prove ineffective or detrimental at other times.

Collective investment scheme risk The Fund may invest in other funds, which may increase losses due to investment in risky assets such as property or commodities, restrictions on withdrawals, less strict regulation and use of derivatives.

Counterparty risk The Fund could lose money if a counterparty with which it trades becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the Fund.

Credit risk The value of a bond or money market instrument may fall if the financial health of the issuer weakens, or the market believes it may weaken. This risk is greater the lower the credit quality of the bond.

Derivatives risk Derivatives use exposes the Fund to risks different from, and potentially greater than, the risks associated with investing directly in securities and may therefore result in additional loss, which could be significantly greater than the cost of the derivative.

Equities risk Shares can lose value rapidly, and typically involve higher risks than bonds or money market instruments. The value of your investment may fall as a result.

Hedging risk If the Fund or a specific share class of the Fund seeks to reduce risks (such as exchange rate movements), the measures designed to do so may be ineffective, unavailable or detrimental.

Interest rate risk When interest rates rise (or fall), the prices of different securities will be affected differently. In particular, bond values generally fall when interest rates rise. This risk is generally greater the longer the maturity of a bond investment.

Liquidity risk Any security could become hard to value or to sell at a desired time and price, increasing the risk of investment losses.

The full list of the Fund's risks are contained in the "Investment and Risk Considerations" section of the Fund's prospectus.
