

Janus Henderson Horizon Euroland Fund

For professional investors only | For promotional purposes

A fund following a disciplined process to identify good quality, but undervalued companies operating or based in the Euroland.

May be suitable for investors seeking long-term exposure to Euroland equities.

Designed to:

Focus on value: The fund aims to provide capital growth by investing in undervalued stocks listed in, or operating within, countries that have taken the euro as their currency (the 'Euroland')*. It follows a bottom-up stock picking approach.

Take advantage of market inefficiencies: The fund manager believes that stock mis-pricing is driven by the incorrect interpretation of a specific risk or broader market uncertainty. His disciplined investment process removes sentiment, allowing him to benefit from this inaccuracy.

Provide distinct access to the eurozone: The alignment of the underlying portfolio to the euro removes currency risk for eurozone-domiciled investors and is distinct from the pan-European approach of many peers.

Benefiting from:

Highly experience manager: Nick Sheridan has 31 years' investment experience. He is supported by Janus Henderson Investors' well-resourced team of European equities specialists.

Proprietary analysis: Fund constituents are selected using the disciplined investment screening process developed by the fund manager since 1988.

Flexible value: The fund has the remit to invest in any stock that meets the fund manager's view of where 'value' lies. Consequently, while the fund is value-biased, it is rarely 'deep value'.

The process I employ, developed during more than a quarter-century of investing, strips out fashionable ideas or trends, enabling us to focus on undervalued opportunities, without sacrificing quality.”

Nick Sheridan, Fund Manager

Opportunity set

In recent years, Euroland companies have progressively optimised their operations, cut costs and strengthened their balance sheets. Yet a sustained period of political and economic uncertainty following the global financial crisis that began in 2007, means that the region has been out of favour. Many prosperous and well-managed firms across the region remain priced at a level that may not reflect their intrinsic value of future prospects. While the political backdrop remains uncertain, with inflation returning to the region and the economy slowly but steadily improving, the Euroland area may once again be on the radar for investors.

The Euroland is home to a diverse range of companies across all sectors, many of which are either misunderstood or under-researched. This creates opportunities for a disciplined value-conscious approach that removes sentiment from its process.

Important information

Past performance is not a guide to future performance and the fund may not achieve its investment objective. The value of an investment and any income from it can fall as well as rise and you may not get back the amount originally invested. Changes in the rate of exchange between currencies, if appropriate, may cause your investment to go up or down in value. Before investing, please read the Key Investor Information Document and Fund Prospectus. You should satisfy yourself as to the suitability and risks involved and you may wish to consult a financial adviser.

* The fund must invest at least 75% of its total assets in equity securities of companies with their registered office in Euroland countries.
