Terms to understand

ABS and MBS A type of bond backed by the income stream from an underlying pool of assets, such as a loan or a mortgage.

Bonds Securities that represent an obligation to repay a debt along with interest.

Contingent Convertible Bonds (CoCos) Bonds that, upon a predetermined 'trigger event' can be converted into shares of the issuer or are partly or wholly written off.

Derivatives Financial instruments whose value is linked to the price of an underlying asset (eg indices, rates, share prices).

Loans Privately issued debt from non-investment grade companies, generally secured against company assets and that rank first in priority of payment. Interest payments are linked to money market rates.

Money market instruments A short term debt instrument, issued by a government or company as a way to raise money. Generally considered a cash equivalent.

Total Return Swap A derivative instrument where one party pays/receives the total return of the underlying asset or market index, in exchange for payments typically linked to Libor.

Volatility How sharply the Fund's share price has gone up and down over a period, generally several years.

You can buy, sell or switch shares in the Fund on any business day, as defined within the "Definitions" Section of the Fund's prospectus.

This share class accumulates gross income and capital gains which is retained within the price of the share class.

Risk and reward profile

The value of an investment and any income from it can go up or down. When you sell your shares they may be worth less than you paid for them.

The risk/reward rating above is based on medium-term volatility. In the future, the Fund's actual volatility could be higher or lower and its rated risk/reward level could change.

The share class appears at 2 out of 7. Share classes in higher categories have shown greater and/or more frequent variations in share price in the past 5 years than those in lower categories. The lowest category does not mean risk free.

The rating does not reflect the possible effects of unusual market conditions or large unpredictable events. Under normal market conditions the following risks may apply:

Default Risk and High Yield Bonds An issuer of a bond (or money market instrument) may become unable or unwilling to pay interest or repay capital to the Fund. If this happens or the market perceives this may happen, the value of the bond will fall. High yielding (non-investment grade) bonds are more speculative and more sensitive to adverse changes in market conditions.

Interest Rates When interest rates rise (or fall), the prices of different securities will be affected differently. In particular, bond values generally fall when interest rates rise. This risk is generally greater the longer the maturity of a bond investment.

Prepayment and Extension Callable debt securities (securities whose issuers have the right to pay off the security's principal before the maturity date), such as ABS or MBS, can be impacted from prepayment or extension of maturity. The value of your investment may fall as a result.

Derivatives and Leverage The Fund may use derivatives towards the aim of achieving its investment objective. This can result in 'leverage', which can magnify an investment outcome and gains or losses to the Fund may be greater than the cost of the derivative. Derivatives also introduce other risks, in particular, that a derivative counterparty may not meet its contractual obligations.

Exchange Rates If the Fund holds assets in currencies other than the base currency of the Fund or you invest in a share/unit class of a different currency to the Fund (unless 'hedged'), the value of your investment may be impacted by changes in exchange rates.

Currency Hedging When the Fund, or a currency hedged share class of the Fund (with 'Hedged' in its name), seeks to mitigate (hedge) exchange rate movements of a currency relative to the Fund's base currency, the hedging strategy itself may create a positive or negative impact to the capital value of the Fund or share class due to differences in short-term interest rates between the currencies.

Liquidity Securities within the Fund could become hard to value or to sell at a desired time and price, especially in extreme market conditions when asset prices may be falling, increasing the risk of investment losses.

The full list of the Fund's risks are contained in the "Investment and Risk Considerations" section of the Fund's prospectus.
