Short Report

For the six months ended 31 December 2016

Investment Fund Manager

Henderson Multi-Asset Team

Investment objective and policy

To achieve capital growth.

The fund will invest worldwide in a combination of Collective Investment Schemes (including Exchange Traded Funds) and investment trust shares and other closed-ended vehicles. The fund may also invest in money-market instruments, cash and near cash and deposits.

Risk and reward profile

The fund currently has 2 types of unit class in issue; Accumulation and Class I accumulation.

The risk and reward profile is the same for each type of unit and is as follows:

The Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator (SRRI) is calculated based on historical volatility over a rolling 5 year period, it is reviewed monthly and updated if volatility has changed materially to cause a movement in the SRRI level. The SRRI is an indicator and may not accurately reflect future volatility and market conditions.

The value of an investment in the fund can go up or down. When you sell your units they may be worth less than you paid for them.

The risk/reward rating above is based on medium-term volatility. In the future, the fund's actual volatility could be higher or lower and its rated risk/reward level could change.

The lowest category does not mean risk free.

The fund's risk level reflects the following:

- The fund invests in a mix of different asset classes.
- Fluctuations in exchange rates may cause the value of your investment to rise or fall.

The rating does not reflect the possible effects of unusual market conditions or large unpredictable events. Under normal market conditions the following risks may apply:

Counterparty risk The fund could lose money if a counterparty with which it transacts becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.

Focus risk The fund's value may fall where it has concentrated exposure to an issuer or type of security that is heavily affected by an adverse event.

Liquidity risk Certain securities could become hard to value or sell at a desired time and price.

Management risk Investment management techniques that have worked well in normal market conditions could prove ineffective or detrimental at other times.

The full list of the fund's risks are contained in the "Risk Warnings" section of the fund's prospectus.

There has been no changes to the risk rating in the period.

The SRRI conforms to the ESMA guidelines for the calculation of the SRRI.

Investment review

The second half of 2016 saw bond yields rise from historic lows. A combination of improving economic growth, recovering commodity prices and increasingly tight labour markets all supported the rise in yields and inflation expectations. World equity markets performed well, with the FTSE World Index up 8.8% on a total return basis in local currency returns. Equity investors took the surprise US election victory of Donald Trump in their stride and focused on the positive rather than populist aspects of the Republican's election campaign promises.

The US dollar continued to strengthen against most currencies as a result of Donald Trump's election, improving US growth and the prospect of more Federal Reserve rate hikes. Sterling continued to fall in value as the fallout from the Brexit referendum result continued to weigh on the currency, which was further impacted by Theresa May's hints of a 'hard' Brexit at the Conservative party conference in October.

During the six months ending 31 December 2016, the fund returned 17.0%, outperforming the IA Global Sector Average, which returned 15.5%. The fund's strong performance was driven by a combination of risk assets performing extremely well during the period and the weakness of sterling. The fund's 20% allocation to North American equities performed very well, contributing 3.2% to performance. The standout performer was the Fidelity American Special Situations Fund, which returned 21.1% in sterling terms. As a result of the fall in the value of sterling, our holdings in UK investments with overseas exposure performed well – the allocation of roughly 12% generated a contribution of 1.6% to performance. More stock-specifically, Riverstone Energy performed well as the price of oil recovered, driven by improving growth and a promised cut in supply by OPEC members. The position returned 50% during the second half of the year, contributing 1.1% to performance.

During the period, the main change to the fund's asset allocation was to increase the weightings across North American and Japanese equities. Within US equities, this was achieved by increasing our existing position in the Fidelity American Special Situations Fund and initiating a new holding in the Legg Mason ClearBridge US Aggressive Growth Fund. Within Japan equities, we reduced the short position in OSE Nikkei 225 index futures. Elsewhere, we reduced the allocation to European ex-UK equities; this was mainly achieved through redeeming our position in the BlackRock Greater Europe Investment Trust.

Looking to 2017, it is clear that some of the trends that are emerging from the latter half of 2016 will be important drivers of markets. The positive thrust from fiscal policy and slow reduction in central bank activity is likely to weigh heavily on government bond markets, while cyclical assets are likely to continue their recovery. We are holding a relatively balanced stance, with few significant regional equity bets and a pragmatic approach to currencies and fixed income. We believe that there will be opportunities for tactical trades across all asset classes in the coming months.
