CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT

Performance

Over the half-year ended 31 March 2018 the net asset value per ordinary share total return was -5.0%, with the benchmark, the FTSE World Europe ex UK Index in Sterling terms, total return being -4.3%. Over the same period, the share price total return was -7.1%. The gearing level at the end of the period was 2.4%.

The Company traded at a premium to net asset value in the early part of the period to 31 March 2018, enabling the issue of 165,000 new shares.

Revenue and dividend

The Board has declared an interim dividend of 9.50p per ordinary share (2017: 9.00p). This is an increase of 5.6% over the prior year interim dividend and is intended to maintain an appropriate balance between the interim and final dividends. The dividend will be paid on 29 June 2018 to shareholders on the register on 1 June 2018. The shares will be marked ex-dividend on 31 May 2018.

Outlook

Our Fund Management team has grown steadily more cautious over the past six months. This reflects the fact that fewer individual bargains are apparent, as well as the anticipation of a more challenging macro environment than is perhaps anticipated by the consensus. Thus, the Company's portfolio has moved to an ungeared position, in the expectation that better entry prices will present themselves.

Chairman

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

In the Company's 2017 Annual Report we expressed our scepticism towards the "hotter" end of this bull market. Markets do, eventually, remind us that momentum works both ways and the early weeks of 2018 served up just such a reminder. Our sense of unease extends beyond what may be considered examples of exotica, such as "unicorns" and cryptocurrencies: we continue to believe that America's equity market itself has been hijacked by momentum players, whether human, robotic, algorithmic, or the artificially intelligent. While European stock markets are home to much less in the way of glamorous technology companies, we must always be aware that US markets set the tone. It remains our belief that the latter are overvalued.

There has also been something of a "momentum trade" in optimism over a synchronised world economic expansion. Here, again, we take the other side: while we try not to get sucked into macroeconomics, we do believe that the odds favour a global economic slowdown. A glance at monetary aggregates would support such a thesis.

It is in the context of the above that we have reduced the portfolio's exposure to certain cyclicals. Notably, we have substantially reduced exposure to European banks. A contrarian call at the time we invested in 2016, we now believe that, unless bond yields were to rise much from here, the rerating of the sector is just about done. Importantly, we have retreated to what some might consider the more boring parts of the banking landscape, exemplified by our holdings in Benelux and Scandinavia. Selling the hare and buying the tortoise therefore characterises our movements of the last six months.
